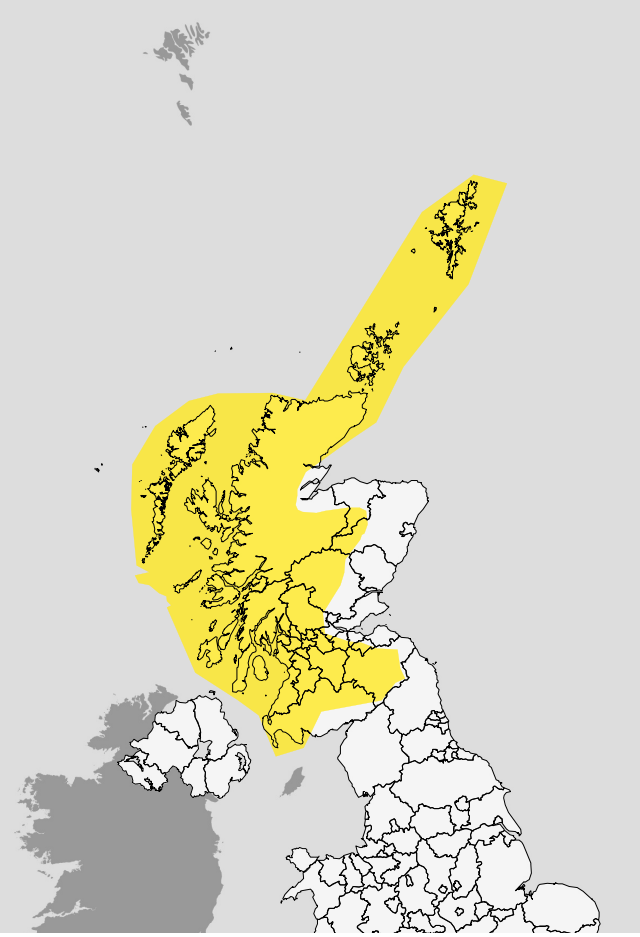
Yellow warning
Snow & Ice

Between
21:00 Sun 25 Dec 2022 and
18:00 Mon 26 Dec 2022



Wintry showers are likely to combine with some icy surfaces to cause some travel disruption, mainly to higher routes.

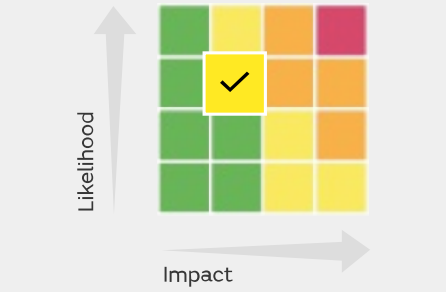
What to expect

- Some roads and railways likely to be affected with longer journey times by road, bus and train services
- A very small chance of interruptions to power supplies.
- Probably some icy patches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths

Further details

Strengthening west-northwesterly winds will bring increasingly frequent wintry showers to parts of Scotland through Sunday night and into Monday morning. These may fall as snow to low levels for a time where temporary accumulations of 1-3 cm are possible, with 5-10 cm of snow over the hills. Icy surfaces will be an additional hazard, especially across parts of Western Scotland later in the night where showers will fall as rain or sleet.

Snow showers will extend to central and southern parts of Scotland by Monday morning, although any lying snow will be confined to higher ground.



Medium likelihood of low impacts

Yellow warning
Snow & Ice

Between
21:00 Sun 25 Dec 2022 and
18:00 Mon 26 Dec 2022

Further Details (continued)

Wintry showers will continue elsewhere within the warning area through Monday; a further 10 cm of snow is possible by the end of the day across higher parts of Highland. Strong and gusty winds will bring the risk of drifting and blizzards for upland areas, with a small risk of isolated power outages as the snow and strong wind affects power lines.

Reason for update

Warning area extended into more western and southern Scotland and the Northern Isles. Greater ice risk across western Scotland later in the night.
